

Historically Underutilized Business Zone (HUB Zone)

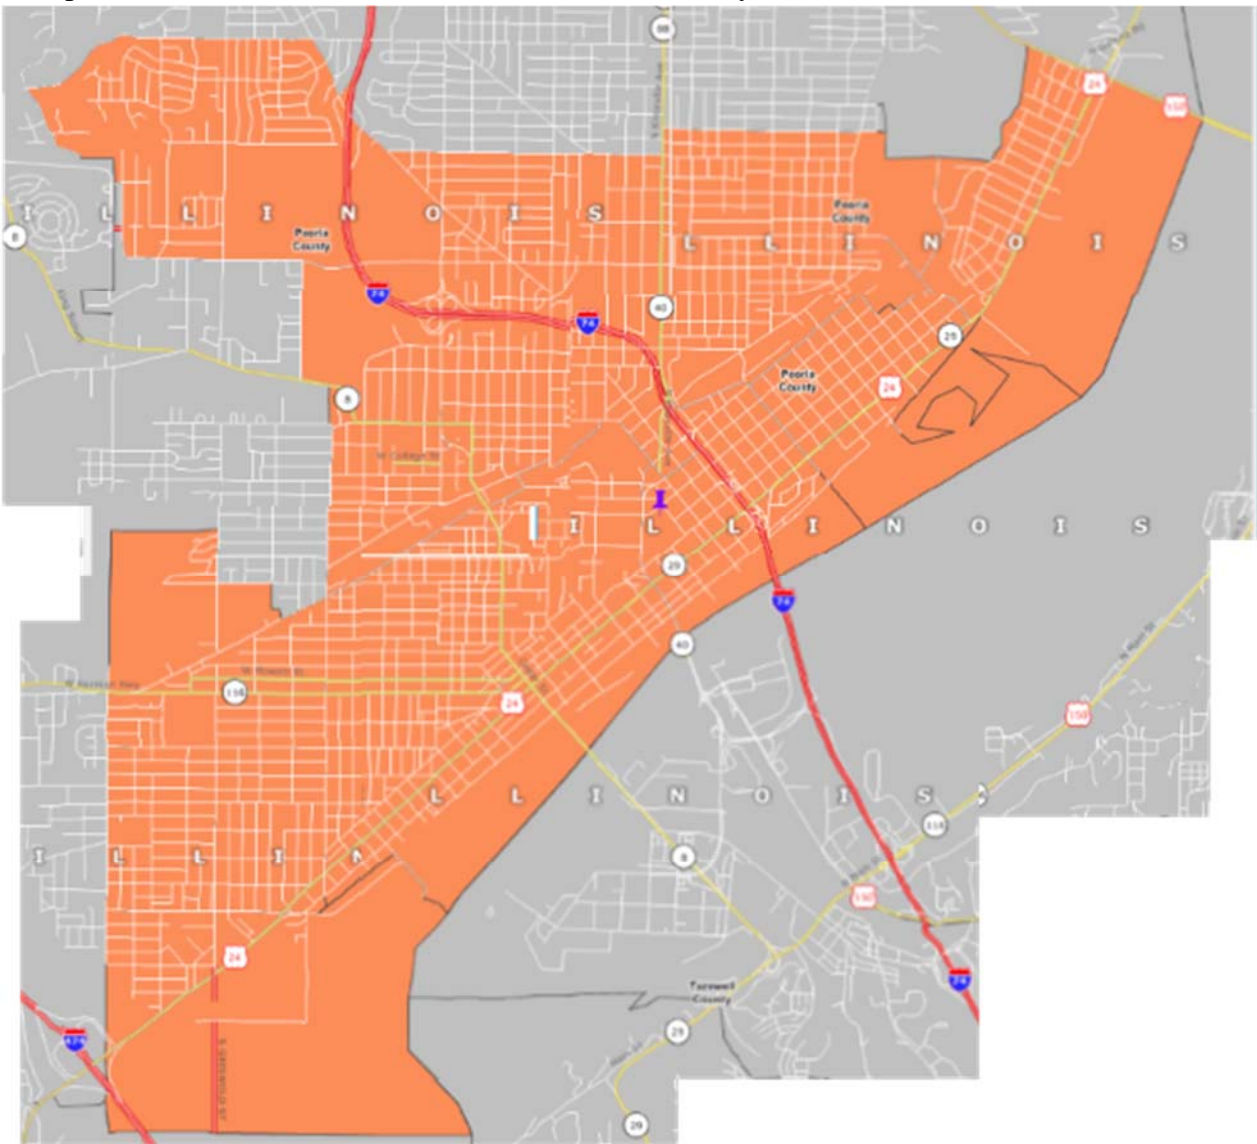

<http://www.sba.gov/hubzone>

HUBZone is a US Small Business Administration program for companies that operate and employ people in Historically Underutilized Business Zones (HUB Zones). The federal government is required to contract with HUB Zone certified small businesses; with an annual goal of 3% for all federal agencies. Major companies such as CAT and John Deere, and government prime contractors have similar requirements.

Businesses can be HUB Zone certified if they meet the following criteria:

1. The business must be a “small” business and located in the HUB Zone.
2. The business must be entirely owned by citizens of the United States.
3. The principal office for the corporation must be in a HUB Zone.
4. 35% of a company's staff including consultants must reside in a HUB Zone.
